

The reason for the positive test for alcohol is found in the solvent used in the preparation of the antineoplastic drug ETOPOSIDE. Some compounds have alcohol within the solvent of the solution and can give rise to situations such as those described in this case.